ORDER

Defendants move for summary judgment pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 56. Plaintiffs oppose. Oral argument was held on May 11, 2005, in Utica, New York

Plaintiffs Carie Dingle-Warmack ("Dingle-Warmack")<sup>1</sup> and Joyce Jackson were shopping in The Children's Place in Sangertown Mall on June 23, 2003. Defendant Leona Rivkin ("Rivkin") misplaced a Gap shopping bag in the store. Employees of the store made slanderous statements to Rivkin that plaintiffs were "known to steal," and accused plaintiffs of taking the missing bag. Rivkin reported the possible larceny to Sangertown Mall security which alerted Town of New Hartford police officers. Three officers participated in a stop and search of Dingle-Warmack's vehicle shortly after plaintiffs left the mall.

Plaintiffs' claims against the Town of New Hartford under §1983 fail as the Town may not be held vicariously liable for the acts of its officers. The remaining claims against the Town are deemed abandoned as plaintiffs failed to respond to the Town's arguments to dismiss. All claims against the Town of New Hartford will be dismissed with prejudice.

Plaintiffs' § 1983 claims against the individual police officers fail as the officers had probable cause to stop the vehicle, and Dingle-Warmack consented to the subsequent search. The record clearly reflects that the vehicle was stopped both because the officers were informed that the occupants of the vehicle may have been involved in a recent larceny, and that the vehicle was not registered. Dingle-Warmack testified at deposition that upon request, she handed defendant Officer Scott A. Adsit her shopping bag, and never protested a further search of her vehicle. (Dingle-Warmack Deposition Testimony, pp. 139 -144.) By so acting, she gave an implied consent to search which was never revoked. Under such circumstances, the officers would also be entitled to qualified immunity. The claims against the officers will be dismissed with prejudice.

As defendants argue, there are insufficient facts to support § 1985 or § 1988 claims against any defendant. Plaintiff failed to respond to these arguments. These claims will also be dismissed with prejudice.

Plaintiffs have abandoned their § 1983 claims against The Children's Store and Rivkin. There are no federal claims against them, and supplemental jurisdiction over the remaining state law claims of slander and false imprisonment is declined. The state law claims will be dismissed without prejudice. Plaintiffs' motion to amend the amended complaint is moot.

Therefore, it is

ORDERED, that

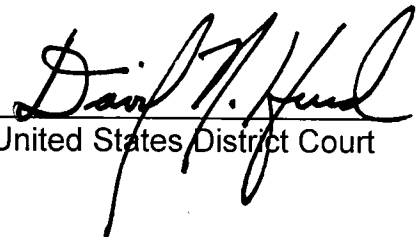

1. The complaints in both cases are dismissed against defendants The Town of New Hartford, Scott A. Adsit, Michael T. Kowalski, Daniel Appler, Richard Jones, and Michael Inserra;

2. The federal claims in both cases are dismissed against defendants Leona Rivkin and The Children's Place Retail Stores, Inc.; and

3. The state law claims in both cases are dismissed against the defendants Leona Rivkin and The Children's Place Retail Stores, Inc. without prejudice.

The Clerk is directed to enter judgment accordingly, and close the file.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
